Through These Doors Walk This Country's Greatest Resource, The American Worker!

It is the sincere desire that your experience at the TCMTTF be pleasant and productive, that we meet your training needs and provide the best training in the industry. To that goal we have established expectations to ensure that you get the most out of your time with us.

Classroom/Lab Expectations

1. The training and instruction you receive in this facility will keep you safe and support you in the field. It is imperative that you be on time every day (walking in late disrupts the learning environment) and that you not miss class, remember instruction is sequential, missing class can void the learning process. We all have lives outside our profession and occasionally an emergency will arise, when that happens please call your instructor or the training center, class time is not optional and makeup classes are not always offered.
2. Be on task during classroom and lab instruction, classes are interactive, your participation is invaluable to your learning. Our goal is to provide the best learning experience possible, your participation will help your understanding as well as those in your class. You will be asked to fill out an evaluation of your instructor at the end of the course. Your instructor will fill out an evaluation of your performance in the course. Evaluations may be shared with training center personnel and may be used in whole or part when making recommendations for advancement.
3. Be respectful of all class members and instructors, you are a professional and we will work to make sure you are treated as such. The training center expects no less from you when interacting with instructors or personnel associated with the training center.

Regards,

David Barron
